

Are you between 15-21?

Looking for a
BETTER FUTURE?

Better Futures is a multi-site collaborative effort in partnership with The University of Washington to provide an intervention for young people aged 15-21 living in foster care.

The Texas Institute for Child and Family Wellbeing at the Steve Hicks School of Social Work at The University of Texas at Austin is looking to recruit young people in foster care to be a part of an exciting new opportunity to improve higher education enrollment & achievement.

Better Futures is evidence-based & provides high schoolers in foster care with skills and experience to support post-secondary education goals.

JOIN US!

WHAT TO EXPECT:

- Young people will be paired with a trained peer mentor coach in the community.
- Attend an all-expenses-paid 2-night/3-day Summer Institute on the University of Texas Campus.
- Participate in skills workshops and activities with your Institute cohort throughout the 2023-24 school year.
